ABSTRACT

Based on a survey of members of the Adult Education Association of Michigan and the Michigan Library Association, this resource directory contains information on the personal and institutional resources possessed by members of the two organizations, and is intended to facilitate statewide networking and the sharing of professional skills and resources to solve mutual problems. The entries in the directory are arranged alphabetically by the names of the individual association members. Each entry includes the home address and home phone number of the individual; the individual's professional affiliation, employer, and employer's address and phone number; a checklist of the individual's personal skills; a checklist of the adult populations served by the individual's employer; a list of the problems addressed by the institution or agency with which the individual is affiliated and methods of service delivery by that institution or agency; and a list of specialized materials available to adults through the individual's agency or institution. This Resource Directory is the result of a survey sent to the members of the Adult Education Association of Michigan (AEA-M) and the Michigan Library Association (MLA). The survey was one of the activities of "A Model for Networking," a Section 310 (Adult Education Act) Project funded by the Michigan Department of Education for the fiscal year June, 1980 - May, 1981.

The information listed on the enclosed resource summary sheets was compiled from the surveys. This information can be used to provide opportunities for the members of the Adult Education Association of Michigan and the Michigan Library Association to communicate and cooperate with each other and to create statewide networks. This networking will allow the members of the two organizations to use the skills and resources of other professionals to solve mutual problems.

The form used in this Resource Directory is a condensation of the information gathered from the original surveys completed by the respondents. The form is meant to be helpful to AEA-M and MLA members who wish to locate others who have needed skills and serve similar adult populations. For example, if an individual is interested in cooperating with other agencies to provide services for students, patrons or clients, a quick review of the first section of the directory (Personal skills and resources I can share with others - b.) will identify those who have this skill. The individual may then wish to contact those AEA-M and MLA members within the immediate geographic area to find out more about cooperating or networking with other agencies.

This directory is designed to be used in many ways. However, the primary goal of the Resource Directory is to encourage the establishment and implementation of networks among the members of the Adult Education Association of Michigan and the Michigan Library Association. This directory represents an initial effort to develop a communication network and as such can be used to improve services to all the members of the two statewide organizations.
